THE GLOBAL ECONOMIC SLOWDOWN is searching away not only jobs from Filipino construction workers abroad, but also the remittances for their families back home, international labor groups warned yesterday.

GMA proposes Asian summit to tackle crisis

AS ASIAN GOVERNMENTS PUSHED TO DO their part in averting a global financial meltdown, President Macapagal-Arroyo yesterday proposed a special summit of Southeast Asian leaders and their counterparts from China, Japan and South Korea to tackle the international crisis.

World gov'ts buy into banks; global stocks rebound

LONDON—GOVERNMENTS ACROSS the world moved on Monday to shore up confidence in the tottering global financial system with a slew of bank bailouts and equity purchases worth hundreds of billions of dollars.

World stock markets rebounded strongly after last week's historic sell-off, with European shares opening up more than 5 percent following solid gains in Asia.

Against a backdrop of declining global economic growth and heightened fears of a widespread recession, European governments bought into banks and gave out huge loans in coordinated action to stave off the world's worst financial crisis in nearly 80 years.

Britain said it would spend the equivalent of $63.35 billion in buying equity in its top banks. The move will likely see the British government becoming the biggest shareholder in Royal Bank of Scotland and lender HBOS.

The French government will also create a $54.89-billion fund to take stakes in banks, according to Dow Jones Newswires report.

Later on Monday, German Chancellor Angela Merkel was expected to give further details of the rescue plan that includes setting up a fund that will provide the equivalent of $540.9 billion in guarantees for banks. Bank guarantees provided by the fund will run until Dec. 31, 2009, according to a draft of the bill.

In Tokyo, Japanese Finance Minister Shoichi Nakagawa said his country would consider guaranteeing all bank deposits if necessary.

"We need to stabilise and then rebuild," British Finance Minister Alistair Darling said, encapsulating the moti-

President accused of graft, bribery

By Gil C. Cabacungan Jr.

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo is facing a fresh attempt to unseat her after the House of Representatives confirmed yesterday its receipt of an impeachment complaint, but her allies and critics expect it to go the way of the three previous complaints filed against her.

At least one third of the 240-member House would have to support a complaint to impeach Ms Arroyo and send it to the opposition-dominated Senate for trial. The opposition controls only 28 House seats.

The new impeachment complaint accuses the President of betrayal of public trust, culpable violation of the Constitution, bribery, graft and corruption and other high crimes. (See "Grounds for Impeachment" on Page A4.)

Palace allies in House lament timing of complaint

By Leila B. Salaverria

ALLIES OF PRESIDENT MACApagal-Arroyo in the House of Representatives yesterday wondered why the fourth impeachment complaint against her was filed with the 2010 presidential election just around the corner.

They said the latest complaint was a "selfish" move that would distract lawmakers from their main pressing duty of passing the budget and helping the country cope with the global economic crisis.

They also believed that getting at least one-third of the 240-member House to impeach Ms Arroyo and to send it to the opposition-dominated Senate for trial would be difficult.

"Even if you succeed, there may only be two to three months left in her term," said Rep. Matias Defensor, chair of the House committee on justice.

Senior Deputy Majority Leader Neptali Gonzales II said the impeachment complaint was intended to "advance political interests" and deemed it a betrayal of the country.

"This will just divert our at-

The lawyer who always seemed to beat everybody in filing a formal impeachment complaint against President Macapagal-Arroyo was apparently beaten in his own game yesterday.

Davao bettor hits P131-M lotto jackpot

By Julie M. Aurelio

WHILE BIG BANKS AROUND THE world are drowning in a sea of bad debts, this Filipino will soon be swimming in an ocean of cold cash.

Holding the ticket with the numbers 42-12-46-38-49-15, this still unidentified bettor was the sole winner of Sunday night's 6/49 SuperLotto draw. The prize—a cool P131,367,523.60.

"For security reasons, we cannot name the winner until he comes forward to claim his prize," Larry Cedro, the spokesperson of The Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO), told the Inquirer yesterday.

Cedro said the winning bettor bought the winning ticket at a lotto outlet on J.P. Laurel St. in Davao City, which was being managed by agent Romeo Arcay.

Aside from the P131-million jackpot, the bettor will also take home an

Witness leads probers to 'torture' camp in Bataan

LIMAY, BATAAN—THE MOMENT HE stepped into the clearing in the middle of a grassy hill early yesterday morning, Raymond Manalo felt a cold chill run down his spine. He had to borrow a jacket from a companion to keep himself from shivering.

He was back in the place that, according to him, reminded him of death as well as of the pain he said he suffered in the hands of soldiers.

"I felt cold because I was so scared. I remembered all the painful things that happened," Manalo told reporters in Filipino.

Manalo accompanied a fact-finding team composed of members of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR), the Senate committee on justice and human rights and the group Karapatan to Barangay Bliss in Limay where he said he and his brother, Reynaldo, were detained for seven months, from November 2006 to June 2007.

OPPOSITION to PARDON for ROLITO GO

The Maguan Family would like to inform the public and all concerned of our continued unwavering opposition to the granting of any pardon/executive clemency to convicted murderer Rolito Go for the following reasons:

- Any leniency given to Rolito Go would embolden and increase road rage and senseless shooting on our streets.
- Rolito Go is disqualified from any parole, commutation or clemency by virtue of his evasion of sentence (escape from prison) from Nov. 1, 1993 until his recapture on April 30, 1996 under Rule 2.2f of the Rules on Parole and Sec. 5a of Guidelines for Recommending Executive Clemency. He was in country's top 10 most wanted criminals list and cost the government a large amount of effort including P700,000 reward for his capture during the 30 months he was on the run. His escape was noted by the Honorable Supreme Court in its March 21, 1994 resolution.
- The convicting trial judge, Hon. Benjamin Pelayo and the government prosecutor, Hon. Dennis Villa Ignacio have signified their opposition to Rolito Go's early release.
- The Board of Pardon and Parole, in its September 14, 2006 decision has already denied Rolito Go's appeal for executive clemency. To this date, there is no known new petition on this matter and the decision still stands.
- The very recent payment by Rolito Go of his court ordered civil damages after the denial of his appeal of pardon should have no bearing on his obligation to fully comply with criminal penalties. Our acceptance is definitely not a settlement nor "thawing" of our opposition. It is court computed money that Eldon would have made had he not been killed by Rolito Go. It is actually Eldon's money. We took the money to prevent Mr. Go from using it to lobby for his release. Money can not substitute for life.
- During the trial of this case, Mr. Go submitted fabricated evidence in trying to escape conviction. Even his sister Ms. Julie Sy, who recently appeared in court and in the press claiming deep remorse for her brother's crime, lied during her testimony where she said she was with her brother at the scene and no shooting happened. Rolito Go even assumed a alias identity as "Ernesto Diaz y Tamondong" and was able to obtain false Ids and driver's license under that name while on the run.

It is in light of these facts that our family requests everyone's understanding and support for our continued refusal to accept any reduction of sentence. The privilege of presidential pardon was created to give redemption to the truly reformed and deserving. It is our hope that this privilege be granted judiciously to ensure a just and honorable closure for both the victim's family and perpetrators of crimes.

Water board takes to cyberspace to avert crisis

By Margaux C. Ortiz

THE COUNTRY'S NATIONAL WATER Resources Board (NWRB) has launched an Internet portal to coordinate government moves to solve an impending water crisis.

The country's water problems could raise not just the price of water in the coming years but also the number of people who die due to water-borne diseases, said NWRB executive director Ramon Alikpala at the launch of the new information site for the water supply and sanitation sector (http://philwaters.org.ph).

Alikpala said the good news was that "after five years of no interest in the water sector, there is now a flurry of activity in Congress regarding the sector's issues and problems," and the portal aimed at facilitating information exchange was an additional step.

He said that in Southeast Asia, the Philippines was second to last in 2002 in terms of amount of water per person.

"However, we must note that since then, Thailand—the last country listed in the 2002 study—has significantly reduced its population [and] the Philippines could now be at the bottom of the list," Alikpala said.

He said that aside from access to water, pollution was also a big problem.

The study said that because most homes were not connected to a sewerage system, the groundwater had become contaminated with effluents from septic tanks. Only seven percent of Metro Manila is covered by a sewerage system.

3 billboards collapse near Edsa; 5 injured

EMPLOYEES of St. Jude Transit bus terminal in Quezon City view the destruction brought about by a billboard that fell on the roof of the bus station. Five people were hurt while several vehicles were damaged as a result of the incident. Two other billboards on Edsa also toppled down in the midst of a heavy downpour, but no one was hurt.

Strong winds, rains bring down outdoor signs

By Julie M. Aurelio

FIVE PERSONS WERE HURT when a billboard collapsed in the middle of a heavy downpour and fell on the site of a bus terminal at the southbound lane of Edsa, near the Santolan flyover in Quezon City yesterday afternoon.

Two more billboards on Edsa also toppled over—one near a car repair shop on the southbound lane and the other in front of the Makro supermarket on the northbound lane—but no injuries were reported, Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) officers said.

Although none of the billboards fell on Edsa, the incidents led to heavy traffic on the southbound lane, extending all the way to [illegible] from the Santolan flyover.

One of those injured, Mary Joy [illegible], told the Inquirer that she was just loading her cell phone at a store near the St. Jude Transit terminal when the billboard crashed down on the establishment at around 3 p.m.

"The rains were quite strong. I suddenly heard a strong wind that sounded like a [illegible], then I heard a loud noise. It was the billboard crashing down on the roof of the terminal," she told the Inquirer. [illegible] was hit in the shoulder by one of the beams that held the billboard in place.

"The MMDA people wanted to bring me to the hospital but I have no money," the 18-year-old said.

Four people who were at the bus station were also injured and taken to the East Avenue Medical Center. They were identified as Allan [illegible], who suffered a fracture in the foot; Gerry Marco, who sustained a cut in the head; and Mercy Marco and [illegible], who both complained of gashes.

Couple seek postponement of fraud trial

By Julie M. Aurelio

A GRANDSON OF PRESIDENT MANUEL L. Quezon and his wife have asked a Quezon City court to postpone their trial on fraud charges until the Department of Justice has ruled on their petition for a review of their case.

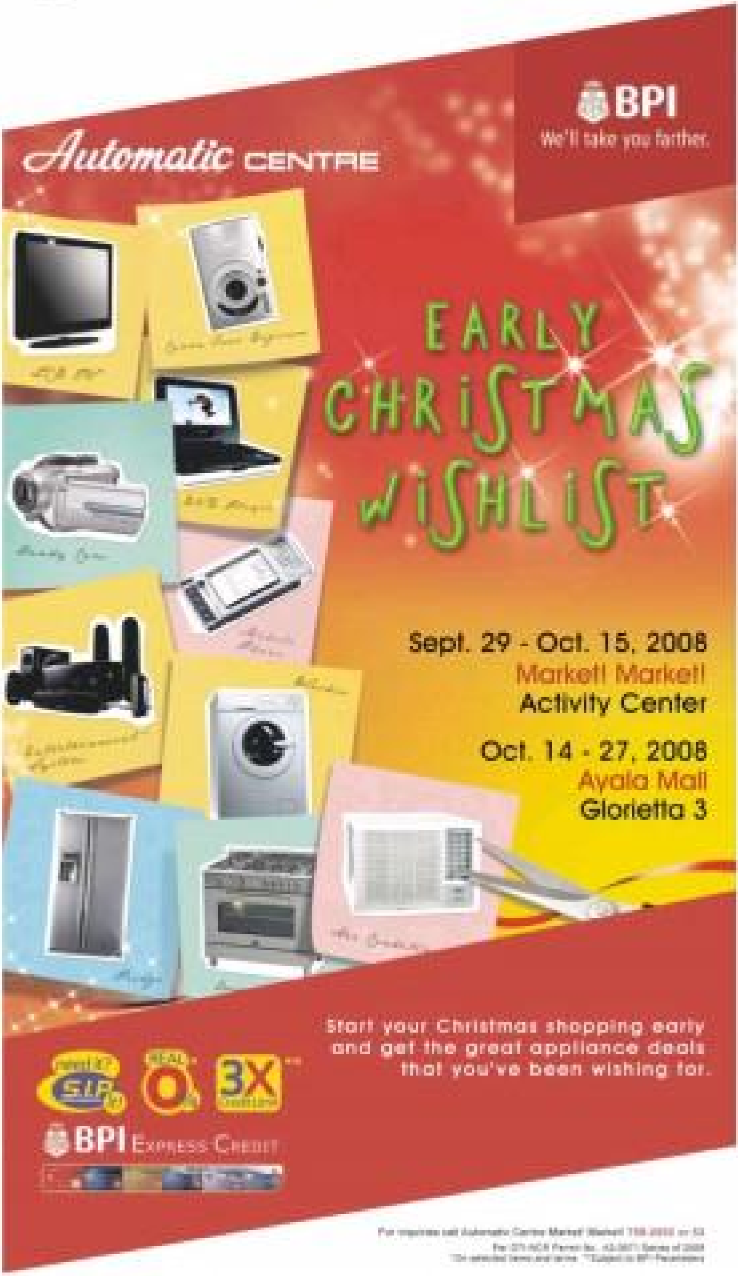

In a two-page motion, Enrique Quezon-Avanceña and Sophia Roco-Avanceña said they were availing themselves of their right to appeal the DOJ resolution that found probable cause for the filing of fraud charges against them.

The motion was filed in the sala of Judge Ma. Christine Jacob of the Quezon City Regional Trial Court Branch 100. One of her staff told the Inquirer that the judge had agreed to a 60-day postponement, but had not yet issued an order.

The Avanceñas were charged with seven counts of violating Republic Act 8484 or the Access Devices Regulation Code by officials of Information Gateway Inc.

The firm accused Sophia of using three of the company's credit cards to pay for several foreign trips she and her husband took. The trips, however, were allegedly booked after Sophia resigned from the firm. The trips cost almost $3,000, including hotel accommodations, the company said.

The couple, however, said the trips were part of the settlement Sophia received from the firm when she resigned.
